Our Vision and Mission

Seminarian Vision Prayer

Through Him, with Him, in Him, in brotherhood we strive to be discipled by Jesus in all things and to embrace joyfully His Cross, to be ordained and sent as priests for the New Evangelization, inspired by the zeal of Saint John Vianney. Mary, Mother of Priests, pray for us!

Seminary Mission Statement

Responding to the Lord's command to go and make disciples of all nations and under the apostolic vigilance of the Archbishop of Denver, the mission of Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is discernment of, and unified formation in, priestly identity marked by an intelligence of heart, with men called to proclaim Jesus Christ and build a civilization of love in persona Christi Capitis. Likewise, this community forms deacons and lay faithful to live as holy men and women in the Church’s mission of the New Evangelization.

Description of the Seminary Mission Statement

The concise language of the Seminary Mission Statement can be elaborated to give a fuller picture of our understanding of our mission.

Responding: We recognize that our mission is a response to God’s call. We are obedient discoverers, not inventors, of our mission.

The Lord’s command to go and make disciples of all nations: This command of the Lord can be found in Matthew 28:19.

The Archbishop of Denver: The Archbishop is ultimately responsible for the governance of the Seminary (cf. can. 259; Program for Priestly Formation, 291-295). “The most important governance policy is the mission statement of the seminary” (Program for Priestly Formation, 305). Our mission is a response to the Great Commission carried out in the hierarchical communion of the Church, under the guidance of the Archbishop of Denver.

Unified formation: The common aim of all our faculty and staff is to foster the work of the Holy Spirit in forming the future priest. This requires an integrated work of human, intellectual, spiritual and pastoral formation, each carried out in concert with the appropriately varied contributions of every member of our formation community and ordered toward helping a man to gain human maturity, spiritual ardor, wisdom, and pastoral charity.

Priestly identity: All members of our faculty and staff are involved in informing the Church’s discernment of whether the signs of priestly identity (beloved son, loyal brother, chaste spouse, spiritual father, divine physician, good shepherd) are manifest and verified in each man preparing for Holy Orders. On the foundation of the baptismal identity (beloved sonship) and its interpersonal flowering in a capacity to be a man of communion (loyal brotherhood), these priestly identities are the hinge of a man’s intimacy with the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit and his vocational mission in the world. The four areas of formation (spiritual, intellectual, human, and pastoral) and the human relationships in which this formation unfolds are all aimed at assisting the seminarian to receive and express his priestly identity. Divine Love forms these identities in every man called to priesthood. They are the reality of such a man’s capacity for growing intimacy with God—to love God with his whole heart, mind, soul, and strength. The more a man grows in intimacy with God, the more these identities will be evident to him and to others in the way he loves his neighbor even as Christ does. Thus there is a kind of perichoresis of Trinitarian intimacy, priestly identity, and vocational action in mission: In Trinitarian intimacy, the man lives out his vocational identity in mission—living Christ’s own chaste spousal love for the Church, living Christ’s own revelation of the Father’s love, living Christ’s own healing love, and living Christ’s own pastoral authority.

Intelligence of heart: This formula is an integrative term cited in Pastores Dabo Vobis (51) to express “the unity of the educational process in its diverse aspects. The commitment to study, which takes up no small part of the time of those preparing for the priesthood, is not in fact an external and secondary dimension of their human, Christian, spiritual, and vocational growth. In reality, through study, especially the study of theology, the future priest assents to the word of God, grows in his spiritual life and prepares himself to fulfill his pastoral ministry. This is the many sided and unifying scope of the theological study indicated by the Council (Optatam Totius, 16) and re-proposed by the synod’s Instrumentum Laboris: ‘To be pastorally effective, intellectual formation is to be integrated with a spirituality marked by a personal experience of God. In this way a purely abstract approach to knowledge is overcome in favor of that intelligence of heart which knows how “to look beyond,” and then is in a position to communicate the mystery of God to the people’ (IL, 39).”

Called to proclaim: Our aim is to form priests who know and proclaim the person of Jesus Christ, in Whom the Father’s Word is fully revealed. This aim is rooted in the words of the Catechism of the Catholic Church: “The transmission of the Christian faith consists primarily in proclaiming Jesus Christ in order to lead others to faith in him” (CCC 425, cf. 426).

Civilization of love: The specific mission of Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary includes a special stewardship of a unique grace for the New Evangelization communicated through the ministry of Saint John Paul II at World Youth Day 1993. This is a distinguishing feature of our seminary vis à vis other seminaries. The use of this phrase, used by Saint John Paul II in his August 14, 1993 homily at World Youth Day in Denver and in his 1994 Letter to Families, acknowledges that special grace and stewardship which shape the mission of our seminary (cf. Archbishop Aquila’s homily on the 20th Anniversary of World Youth Day, 15 August 2013).

In persona Christi Capitis: The Catechism makes especially clear the relation between the identity and mission of the priest: “In the ecclesial service of the ordained minister, it is Christ himself who is present to his Church as Head of his Body, Shepherd of his flock, high priest of the redemptive sacrifice, Teacher of Truth. This is what the Church means by saying that the priest, by virtue of the sacrament of Holy Orders, acts in persona Christi Capitis” (CCC 1548).
Likewise: While the primary work of Saint John Vianney Seminary is the formation of men for the Roman Catholic priesthood, we bring the same vision of holistic, integrated formation to the work of our diaconal and lay divisions in The Saint Francis School of Theology for Deacons, the Catholic Biblical School, and the Catechetical School. The formation of deacons is carried out in accordance with the Congregation for Catholic Education’s 1998 Ratio Fundamentalis Institutionis Diaconorum Permanentium (Basic Norms for the Formation of Permanent Deacons), which specifies the need for human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral formation (66-88). Our lay divisions offer both academic and faith formation to the people of the Archdiocese of Denver.

New Evangelization: As described above under “Civilization of love,” the specific mission of Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary includes a special stewardship of a unique grace for the New Evangelization communicated through the ministry of Saint John Paul II at World Youth Day 1993.

History

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary was officially constituted on March 17, 1999 and inaugurated on the Feast of the Birth of Mary, September 8, of that same year. Since then, the Seminary has been dedicated to forming priests for the new millennium and offering programs of formation for permanent deacons and the lay faithful.

The groundwork of the enterprise was laid by Cardinal J. Francis Stafford, then the Archbishop of Denver, who purchased the site of the former St. Thomas Aquinas Seminary from the Congregation of the Mission in 1995. The facility, which included the Archbishop Vehr Library, had served as the focus for priestly formation for the dioceses and religious orders of the region since 1907. The facility was remodeled and re-named the John Paul II Center for the New Evangelization to serve as a campus for the Archdiocesan Chancery. There was also a vision that the campus would become a resource for priestly formation and the renewal of the Church.

Cardinal Stafford’s successor, Archbishop Charles J. Chaput, O.F.M. Cap., advanced this vision by commissioning a study to determine the feasibility of establishing an educational institution on the site. After much consultation with the priests and people of the archdiocese, Archbishop Chaput announced his plan to open a theological institute to serve the formation needs of clergy and laity engaged in the new evangelization.

These plans resulted in what has become Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary, a freestanding diocesan seminary with a Spirituality Year, Pre-Theologate, and Theologate for priestly formation. Under the direction of the Archbishop of Denver, Samuel J. Aquila, the seminary currently serves the Archdiocese of Denver and 10 other dioceses throughout the United States and 2 international dioceses. In the fall of 2016, there were 127 students enrolled, 35% of whom were international students from 20 different countries.
Accreditation and Affiliations

Saint John Vianney is dedicated to the quality, integrity, and effectiveness of its academic programs. The Seminary is committed to offering a solid formation program for the preparation of young men to serve as Catholic priests in the dioceses of the mountain and great plains regions, as well as other parts of the country and world. To date 145 men have earned the Master of Divinity Degree from the Seminary.

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is affiliated with the Pontifical University of Saint Thomas Aquinas in Rome for the Baccalaureate in Sacred Theology degree (S.T.B.) and is in the process of affiliating with the same for the Bachelor of Philosophy degree (B.Phil.). Previously the Seminary offered both these degree programs through affiliation with the Pontifical Lateran University in Rome.

Saint John Vianney is also associated at the undergraduate level with Regis University in Denver. By virtue of this agreement, students who have taken sufficient college credits prior to coming to the Seminary are eligible to use their Pre-Theology course work to complete a B.A. in Philosophy.

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is accredited by the Commission on Accrediting of the Association of Theological Schools (ATS). The following degree program is approved by the Commission on Accrediting: Master of Divinity (M.Div.). The Commission can be contacted at:

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is approved by the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP), which operates on behalf of DHS, to enroll F-1 nonimmigrants under Campus Code DEN214F00726000.

Veterans Administration
Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is an approved institution for Veteran’s Educational Benefits.
Statement of Educational Effectiveness

Because the Division for Priestly Formation of Saint John Vianney admits only students sponsored for priestly formation by a diocese or religious institute, its rate of placement immediately after graduation and ordination is nearly 100%. In rare cases, there may be a delay between graduation and ordination to the priesthood. Because continuance in the Seminary's programs is dependent on this sponsorship as well as the individual student's ongoing commitment to seek ordination, reasons for departures during formation are handled with discretion. A very general impression of attrition rates can be drawn from the table on "Student Statistics over 5 Years" in the section on "Formation Program Statistics."
The fundamental aim of the formation programs offered by the Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary Division for Priestly Formation is to prepare men for ordination to the Catholic priesthood by cultivating the “intelligence of heart” called for by Pope Saint John Paul II in Pastores Dabo Vobis. Such an intelligence of heart is the result of successfully integrating the four dimensions or pillars of formation articulated by the U.S. Catholic Bishop’s Program for Priestly Formation: spiritual, human, intellectual, and pastoral.

Because priestly formation requires the integration of the four dimensions, Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary and its programs presuppose that all students in the Division for Priestly Formation are, broadly speaking, residential students, either at Saint John Vianney or in some other supervised program of priestly formation. In a narrower sense, however, the seminary distinguishes between those students who are resident at Saint John Vianney, “Residential students,” and those who are resident in another house of formation, “Non-Resident students.”

Propaedeutic Level: Spirituality Year and Enculturation Programs

Residential students usually begin their studies at Saint John Vianney with one of these programs, which focus on developing the spiritual and human foundations needed to sustain the long process of formation leading to priestly ordination and a fruitful pastoral ministry. These programs include an intellectual formation dimension and include course-like structures, but they do not involve earning an academic degree.

The Saint John Vianney Spirituality Year. This is a one-year program undertaken by new Saint John Vianney students prior to entering the Pre-Theology or Theology Programs. It is a program of prayer, spiritual formation, reading, community life, and service, directed toward personal appropriation of the faith. This “novitiate for the diocesan priesthood” provides a personal foundation for the subsequent disciplined study of truth offered in the academic programs of study. Hearts inclined to the Word-made-flesh allow the One who is the source of priestly formation to reveal Himself more fruitfully in all areas of study and formation.

The Enculturation Program. This is a two- to three-year program developed in collaboration with Redemptoris Mater Seminary for those students who arrive from outside the United States and need a period of enculturation and spiritual development in a new cultural context prior to entering the Pre-Theology or Theology Programs. This program does not have an English language requirement because the residential context of the program offers plenty of opportunities for improving mastery of Spanish and English languages. The formal instructional elements of this program include various enculturation topics, study strategies and language arts skills, spiritual formation topics, and fundamentals of philosophy and theology.

Undergraduate Level: The Pre-Theology Formation Program

Pre-Theology is an undergraduate-level program that provides a standard set of courses needed for admission to a Roman Catholic Theology Program. Saint John Vianney’s Pre-Theology Program also includes the options of a Bachelor of Arts completion program in conjunction with Regis College and University and a pontifical Baccalaureate in Philosophy (B.Phil.) degree.

The Standard Pre-Theology Program. This is not an accredited degree but it does comprise a standard set of undergraduate courses in philosophy, theology, and languages called for by the Program of Priestly Formation as prerequisites for admission to a program of graduate theological studies leading to ordination to the Catholic priesthood.

The B.A. Degree Completion Program. The PPF mandates that theology programs require students to hold an undergraduate degree before beginning their graduate-level theology studies. Students who come to Saint John Vianney with two years of college, and whose previous coursework satisfies the Regis University Foundational and Distributive Core requirements, can earn a B.A. with a major in Philosophy from Regis University by completing either the Saint John Vianney Standard Program or B.Phil. degree.

The Pontifical Baccalaureate in Philosophy (B.Phil.) Degree Program. This is a three-year ecclesiastical degree granted through affiliation with one of the pontifical universities in Rome. While it is not the equivalent of an American undergraduate degree, this degree provides an excellent foundation in philosophical studies especially for those students who hope to pursue a more advanced philosophy degree within the pontifical system.

Graduate Level: The Theology Formation Program

Theology is a four-year program of integral formation for the Roman Catholic priesthood that includes a graduate-level academic theology program which in turn comprises two degree programs, the S.T.B. and the M.Div. All students admitted to the Theology Formation Program are enrolled in both degree programs, although in exceptional circumstances a student may in the end complete the requirements for only one or the other degree.

The M.Div. Degree Program. The Master of Divinity degree is the conventional North American graduate-level, professional degree for those preparing for pastoral ministry. Saint John Vianney’s M.Div. is accredited by the Association of Theological Schools. It is usually a three-year degree, but because it is taken as part of the four-year program required by the PPF its requirements are spread throughout the four years.

The Pontifical Baccalaureate in Sacred Theology (S.T.B.) Degree Program. This is a three-year degree granted through affiliation with one of the pontifical universities in Rome. In the pontifical system, the Baccalaureate in Sacred Theology is a first cycle degree; however, it does require two-years of university-level philosophy for admission. Thus, the S.T.B. straddles the American distinction between undergraduate and graduate studies. At Saint John Vianney the S.T.B. is taught at the master’s degree level in conjunction with the M.Div. as part of the four-year graduate-level theology program required by the PPF.

As an enrichment to the Theology Formation Program, The Redemptoris Mater Itinerancy Program is a flexible internship program administered in collaboration with Redemptoris Mater Seminary that gives Redemptoris Mater students the opportunity to receive formation in a pastoral and missionary context for periods of a year or more. These internship assignments are made with the needs of the individual student in mind and typically, though not necessarily, follow their second year in the Theology Program.

Formational Goals and Objectives

Each of Saint John Vianney's formation programs contributes in its own way to the "discernment of, and unified formation in, priestly identity marked by an intelligence of heart." The goals of the Theology Program are representative of the work of the Division for Priestly Formation as a whole. The M.Div. degree assessment program contains the following student learning objectives, which reflect our pursuit of a full integration of the human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral dimensions of priestly formation.

Admissions

Sponsored Seminarians

Admission to the Division for Priestly Formation of Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary has two steps: first, a man must be accepted for priestly formation by a diocese or religious institute; second, with the sponsorship of a bishop or religious superior the man applies to Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary. Admission to Saint John Vianney is further limited to those sponsored seminarians who are qualified for admission to one of its formation programs.

Prospective students submit their applications to the Office of the Rector and are admitted to the seminary by the Rector. Saint John Vianney accepts applications from three categories of potential students:

- Seminarians for the Archdiocese of Denver, as well as other dioceses, who will reside at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary and participate fully in its various programs and activities.
- Seminarians for the Archdiocese of Denver, as well as other dioceses, who will reside at Redemptoris Mater Seminary and will participate in a partial way in the programs and activities of Saint John Vianney while receiving most of their spiritual, human, and pastoral formation at Redemptoris Mater.
- Seminarians belonging to religious institutes who will not be resident at Saint John Vianney but will reside with their religious community and participate only in the academic programs of Saint John Vianney or only in very limited ways in its other formation programs and activities.

The Division for Priestly Formation does not admit lay students into any of its programs of study.

Application and Supporting Documents

Applicants must complete all parts of an admission application and submit all the required documents before an admission decision can be made. The application, the required supporting documentation, and the application review and acceptance process vary according to the prospective student's intended formation program and residency status. To begin the application process, prospective students, in consultation with their bishop and vocation director, should contact the Office of the Rector for information about the admission process and to obtain an application packet.

English Language Requirement

Non-native English speakers must submit the results of a TOEFL iBT examination taken within two years prior to the date of application. Applicants to the Pre-Theology and Theology Programs must achieve a composite score of 80 or higher with 15 or higher in each of the four areas: Listening, Reading, Speaking, and Writing. Applicants to the Spirituality Year Program must achieve a composite score of 70 or higher, with 15 or higher in each of the four areas. The Enculturation Program has no English language admission requirement.

Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP)

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is certified by the Department of Homeland Security’s Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP) and is eligible to enroll students with current F-1 Visas. The Registrar is the Primary Designated School Official who issues the Form I-20, Certificate of Eligibility for Nonimmigrant Student Status, upon the student’s acceptance to the seminary by the Rector.

Projected Plan of Study

When a prospective student is admitted to the Spirituality Year, Pre-Theology Program, or Theology Program, he will receive a Projected Plan of Study that will be used both for academic planning and for projecting important formation milestones on the way to priestly ordination. If the student or his vocation director has any concerns about the projected plan or time frame, these should be addressed with the seminary before the student comes to campus to begin his studies.

The Projected Plan of Study represents the seminary’s commitment that if it changes its program or degree requirements, it will either continue to provide the curriculum contained in the student’s plan until he is finished, or implement those changes in a way that will not lengthen the time frame to ordination, place an undue course load burden on the student, or compromise the student’s readiness according to the standards of the PPF.

If a student’s progress through the regular cycle of courses is interrupted by illness, a pastoral year, or an itinerancy internship, a new Projected Plan of Study will be created when the student returns to the regular cycle of courses. In such cases, a new ordination time frame will also be necessary.

Financial Information

Tuition and Fees

In 2017-2018, tuition for seminarians from outside the Archdiocese of Denver is $22,092 per annum1. Students admitted under special circumstances for a particular course are charged $705 per credit hour. (Tuition and fees are subject to change without prior notice.)

1 Tuition and fees for seminarians studying for the Archdiocese of Denver are covered by the Archdiocese of Denver.
Housing

Housing and meals are provided for seminarians of the Archdiocese of Denver and those assigned to the Seminary by their local Ordinary. The cost for room and board for seminarians from outside the Archdiocese of Denver is $10,882 per annum².

Insurance Coverage

Health care insurance is provided for seminarians of the Archdiocese of Denver. Seminarians from other dioceses must make arrangements for health insurance coverage through their local Ordinary. Students are expected to assume responsibility for auto, fire, theft, and personal property insurance.

Withdrawal from the Seminary

A student in good standing may withdraw from the Seminary during a semester. Each student is responsible for settling all outstanding bills, returning keys and other items issued to them for use at the seminary, and returning all books to the library prior to leaving the seminary.

Refunds

Students who withdraw from the seminary before the end of an academic semester will be charged for tuition, room, and board on a pro rata basis, according to the date of withdrawal.

Books and Personal Items

All seminarians must purchase their own books and personal items.

Student Loan Deferment

The Seminary is authorized to validate in-school deferments of eligible student loans, but does not participate in the direct-lending portion of Title IV.

Veteran’s Benefits

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary is an approved institution for Veteran’s Educational Benefits.

Enculturation Program

The Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary Enculturation Program, developed in collaboration with Redemptoris Mater Seminary of Denver, has been in existence for several years. The purpose of this program is to provide a residential formation program suitable for students who need varying periods of time (up to three years) for enculturation and spiritual development in a new cultural context before applying to the Pre-Theology or Theology Programs.

Specific Admission Requirements

To be admitted to an enculturation program at Saint John Vianney, a student must have completed his secondary education and be eligible for acceptance as a seminarian by the Archdiocese of Denver. Unlike the other formation programs at Saint John Vianney, the enculturation program has no English-language admission requirement. If, in the course of an enculturation program, it becomes clear that the seminarian is in need of formal ESL classes, he will enroll in an accredited program on a qualifying full-time basis, and his I-20 will accordingly be transferred to the ESL school until the completion of his ESL classes in compliance with SEVP regulations.

Regular Cycle of Courses

The formal instructional elements of this program include various enculturation topics, study strategies and language arts skills, spiritual formation topics, and fundamentals of philosophy and theology. Students are always enrolled in ENCU 0700, but as their readiness increases they may be eligible to take a few academic courses that are cross listed with courses in the Pre-Theology Program.

Program Completion

When the formators responsible for the program judge that a student has reached a suitable level of maturity, cultural confidence, and linguistic and academic readiness, the student may seek admission to one of the other formation programs at the seminary.
The Spirituality Year has been a central part of the formation of seminarians at Saint John Vianney Seminary since its founding in 1999. The purpose of the year is to give each seminarian the opportunity to lay a strong spiritual foundation for his priestly life.

Specific Admission Requirements

Admission to the Spirituality Year is open to diocesan seminarians who meet the general requirements for admission to the seminary. Applicants whose native language is not English must meet the seminary’s English Language Requirement for SY, that is, a composite TOEFL iBT score of 70 with at least a score of 15 in each of the areas.

Pre-Theology Program

The Pre-Theology Program at Saint John Vianney is a two- or three-year cycle of courses which includes three essential components: philosophy, introductory courses in theology, and Latin. These elements are designed to promote the intellectual formation of the seminarian and to provide a solid foundation for advanced theological study. Seminarians may choose between degree and non-degree programs in philosophy to meet the entrance requirements for the four-year Theology Program. Normally all seminarians are required at a minimum to fulfill the requirements of the PPF.

Specific Admission Requirements

The program is designed to serve men who have completed two years of undergraduate education; however, the minimum requirement is that the applicant must have finished his secondary education. During the admission process, the Director of the Pre-Theology Program and the Academic Dean evaluate the applicant’s academic record and develop a Projected Plan of Study that will prepare the man for admission to the Theology Program. Applicants whose native language is not English must meet the seminary’s English Language Requirement, that is, a composite TOEFL iBT score of 80 with at least a score of 15 in each of the areas, to be eligible for admission to the Pre-theology or Theology Formation Programs.

All Saint John Vianney seminarians must be in a full-time residential program of formation, whether at Saint John Vianney or another religious house, which may be represented by PTFP1600 Formation in Priestly Character (5 credits) in each semester of their Projected Plans of Study. The credit hours assigned to this course reflect the amount of time spent in obligatory formation activities, comparable to in-class and out-of-class work expected in other course strands.
Degree Program Requirements

Standard Program

Students who enter the Pre-Theology program with an undergraduate degree are required to complete at least the two-year Standard Program, which implements the PPF requirements. This program comprises 37 credit hours of Philosophy, 12 hours of introductory Theology, and 11 hours of Latin for a total of 60 credit hours or two years of full-time study. To complete the program, students must:

- Pass all the regular cycle of courses with a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher
- Pass an oral comprehensive exam

B.A. Completion Program

Students who have completed 60 or more college credits that will transfer to Regis University and will complement the courses offered at Saint John Vianney in fulfilling Regis’s degree requirements will be able to complete this program by taking the Standard Program. Others, however, may need to fulfill the Regis University core requirements or to reach the 120 credit hour total by taking additional B.Phil. elective courses offered at Saint John Vianney or by taking courses at other institutions during the summers. To complete a B.A. through this program, students must:

- Meet all Regis University core requirements
- Pass all courses taken at Saint John Vianney with at least a C-
- Meet all the requirements for either the Standard Program or the B.Phil. degree

Pontifical B.Phil. Degree Program

The B.Phil. degree comprises 66 credit hours of Philosophy, 12 hours of introductory theology, and 12 hours of Latin, for a total of 90 credit hours or three years of full-time study. To complete the program, students must:

- Pass all the B.Phil cycle courses with a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher
- Pass a written comprehensive exam
Theology Program

The Theology Program at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary meets all of the requirements for priestly formation specified by the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. The program of studies integrates various strands of theology to form seminarians in the wisdom of the Church. These strands include Scripture, Languages, Dogmatics, Church History, Sacraments and Liturgy, Moral and Spiritual Theology, Pastoral Studies, and Canon Law. Each student is enrolled in a graduate level program that enables him to earn both a Sacred Theology Baccalaureate Degree (S.T.B.) and a Master of Divinity Degree (M.Div.) prior to ordination. The sequencing of courses within the theology curriculum allows requirements for both degrees to be completed within eight regular semesters.

Specific Admission Requirements

In addition to meeting the general seminary admissions requirements, applicants to the Theology Program must also:

- Hold a bachelor’s degree or its equivalent from an accredited college or university;
- Have completed a pre-theologate program at an institution approved by the Academic Dean or the Rector of Saint John Vianney which satisfies the following PPF requirements:
  - 30 semester credits for courses in metaphysics, natural theology, anthropology, epistemology, ethics, logic, and the history of ancient, medieval, modern, and contemporary philosophy;
  - 12 credits in introductory theology;
  - Sufficient competency in Latin to work in the sources of theology;
- Have demonstrated graduate-level proficiency in English Language skills in accordance with the policies of the seminary.

3 PPF: 50. From early in the seminary’s history, the Archbishop of Denver has allowed Saint John Vianney to accept the B.Phil. earned at the seminary in lieu of a four-year undergraduate degree in the case of Denver seminarians enrolled at Denver’s Redemptoris Mater Seminary. This exception to the PPF requirement is limited to these students only and is not extended to any other applicants to the Theology Program.

Degree Program Requirements

Master of Divinity (M.Div.) Degree

The Master of Divinity degree at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary integrates the tradition of sacred theological learning with practical training in pastoral leadership. The primary aim of the M.Div. degree is to develop candidates who are capable of effective pastoral work. The M.Div. is a professional degree accredited by the Association of Theological Schools. To earn the M.Div. degree, candidates must:

- Complete a total of 101 credit hours of course work distributed among the following strands: Scripture (13 credit hours), Dogmatics (22 credit hours), Church History (10 credit hours), Moral and Spiritual Theology (7 credit hours), Sacraments and Liturgy (17 credit hours), Pastoral/Canon Law/Homiletics and Practica (32 credit hours).
- Maintain a minimum grade point average of 2.00 for all courses taken for the degree at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary;
- Complete a minimum of fifty percent (50%) of all required coursework at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary.

Baccalaureate in Sacred Theology (S.T.B.) Degree

The Baccalaureate in Sacred Theology (S.T.B.) is an ecclesiastical degree offered through affiliation with the Pontifical University of St. Thomas Aquinas (Angelicum) in Rome. To earn the S.T.B. degree, candidates must:

- Complete a total of 124 credit hours of course work distributed among the following strands: Biblical Languages (6 credit hours), Scripture (21 credit hours), Dogmatics (22 credit hours), Church History (10 credit hours), Moral and Spiritual Theology (14 credit hours), Sacraments and Liturgy (17 credit hours), Electives (2 credit hours) and Pastoral/ Canon Law/Homiletics and Practica (32 credits hours);
- Maintain a minimum grade point average of 2.00 for all courses taken for the degree at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary;
- Complete a minimum of fifty percent (50%) of all required coursework at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary;
- Write a 30-page thesis; and
- Pass a comprehensive oral examination.
ACADEMIC POLICIES AND CALENDAR

Academic Policies

Registration

There is one registration procedure for all seminarians. Official registration prior to the start of each term is required and students may not attend classes without completing the formal registration process. Once a student's registration has been approved and submitted to the Office of the Registrar, no registration changes may be initiated without the written approval of the Academic Dean and the student's formation and academic advisors. The last day to add or drop a class during an academic term is published in the academic calendar.

Formation Advisors

For residential students at Saint John Vianney the House Father, who lives with them, serves the role of Formation Advisor described by the PPF:

These formation advisors/mentors and directors should be priests. They observe seminarians and assist them to grow humanly by offering them feedback about their general demeanor, their relational capacities and styles, …, and their appropriation of the human virtues that make them “men of communion.” … More generally, they offer encouragement, support, and challenge along the formational path. These formators function exclusively in the external forum and are not to engage in matters that are reserved for the internal forum and the spiritual director (PPF, 80).

Academic Advisors

Seminarians who are eligible to enroll in an academic program of studies are assigned to an academic advisor at the start of their pre-theologate and theologate programs. The academic advisor, in cooperation with the seminarian’s formation advisor, monitors the student’s progress through the program from an academic perspective.

The student’s academic advisor is responsible for ensuring that the Projected Plan of Study is followed or, if necessary, modified and approved by the appropriate parties. Any changes that might entail a delayed ordination time frame should be referred to the Academic Dean for referral to the Rector who will communicate with the seminarian’s sending bishop or religious superior.
Transfer Credits

When a prospective student applies to Saint John Vianney, his transcripts are evaluated for possible transfer credit. The Cycle Director (Pre-Theology or Theology) will make the initial evaluation and make a recommendation to the Academic Dean, who will make the final decision about transfer credit.

If, at some point after enrollment at Saint John Vianney, a student has earned academic credit at another accredited college, university or seminary, for which he wishes to receive transfer credit, he may apply to the Academic Dean for application of these credits to his Saint John Vianney program. The Academic Dean, in consultation with the program Cycle Director, will make the final decision about whether or how much credit is to be awarded.

Requirements for transfer credits include the following:

1. It is the right and responsibility of Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary to determine if and when it will accept academic credits earned at other institutions to meet its own academic requirements.
2. In order for transfer courses to be evaluated and credit awarded, it is the student’s responsibility to have an official transcript sent directly from the previous institution to the Office of the Registrar at Saint John Vianney.
3. To be considered “official” a transcript must be sent in a sealed envelope, signed, and mailed by the granting institution. No photocopies will be accepted.
4. In order to be considered for transfer credit, the course must be similar in scope and content to a course offered at Saint John Vianney. A college/seminary catalog course description or course syllabus may be required to assess the transferability of credit.
5. In order to be considered for transfer credit at Saint John Vianney, coursework must have been taken at a comparable level to the course for which it would substitute and, preferably, have been earned at an institution accredited by a recognized accrediting body.
6. A grade of “C” or higher must have been earned in an undergraduate course to be considered for undergraduate transfer credit. A grade of “C” or higher must have been earned in a graduate level course in order to be considered for graduate transfer credit.
7. Credits earned at the undergraduate level may not be applied toward courses offered by Saint John Vianney at the graduate level.
8. A transfer course of a lesser credit hour value will not suffice for one of a higher credit hour value. However, courses of similar scope and content but of a lesser credit hour value may be applied toward the partial fulfillment of a course of a higher credit hour value at Saint John Vianney. In that case, the content and/or credit hour deficiency must be made-up elsewhere in the curriculum. If a transfer course carries a credit value different from the credit value of a similar course at Saint John Vianney, the credit value of the Saint John Vianney course will determine the credits required for the fulfillment of requirements for Saint John Vianney degrees.
9. No more than fifty percent of required coursework may be transferred into a degree program at Saint John Vianney.
10. Coursework considered for transfer credit must have been earned no more than 10 years prior to the date the credits are presented for review at Saint John Vianney.
11. Official transcripts received by the Office of the Registrar are the property of the seminary.
Auditing Courses

“Audit” is a registration status that allows a student to attend a course without receiving academic credit for it. Audit implies no academic achievement on the part of the student and courses taken by audit do not count toward meeting degree requirements or toward full-time status. It is each professor’s option to require full academic participation in the class by requiring the auditing student to write research papers, to participate in class discussions, or to sit for exams. Grades for written papers and examinations are “advisory only” since no credit is given for audited classes.

• The instructor may administratively remove an auditing student from class for non-attendance or for behavior that is in any way disruptive to the class.
• The permanent academic record will reflect the grade status of “AU” for students who successfully complete a course taken for audit.
• A course may not be changed from “audit” status to “credit” status after the add/drop date; later withdrawal from audited courses is handled in the same way as a credit course; and an audit course is charged at the same rate as a credit course.
• An “Auditor” who is not a regular member of the student body may attend classes only upon the written permission of the Academic Dean and the instructor of record for a given course. To date such permission has only been given to priests of the Archdiocese of Denver.

Course Delivery Methods

Except for pastoral field assignments, all courses are taught in-person at the main campus using any combination of lecture and class discussion. Saint John Vianney does not offer distance, online, or hybrid courses.

Full-Time Course Load

The residential formation at Saint John Vianney obligates men to regular times of common prayer, communal meals, and formational activities. These are important elements of the spiritual and human formation provided by the seminary and are supervised by formation advisors who meet with students regularly and make periodic evaluations of their strengths, weaknesses, and progress. The time and effort asked of the men are taken into account when calculating course loads for government reporting purposes.

The seminary operates on a 13-week semester hour system. One semester hour of credit is equal to 13 hours of classroom instruction during the term; two semester hours of credit require 26 hours of classroom instruction; three semester hours equate to 39 hours of class room instruction, etc. In addition to this, the semester includes study days and final examination days. Intellectual formation is rigorous as are the other areas of formation. Students are expected to spend an appropriate amount of time preparing for each class.

To be considered full-time, a student must carry at least 12 semester hours of credit during a regular term. Normally students enroll in 14-17 credits per semester. In exceptional cases a student may petition the Academic Dean to register for more than 18 semester hours of credit. Only with the written permission of his formation advisor may a student register for fewer than 12 credit hours in a semester. International students must maintain full-time status, in accord with the regulations of the Student Exchange and Visitors Program.
Required Reading

Seminary classes are taught at the advanced undergraduate and graduate level (in the Pre-Theology and Theology Programs, respectively). Reading requirements are identified in each course syllabus. There is no absolute norm regarding the quantity of reading required for an academic course. Students are required to have in their possession for personal use, both in and outside regularly scheduled classes, the required texts for each class.

Examinations and Other Forms of Assessment

Depending on the nature of the course, instructors may elect to give regular examinations or to grade students on the basis of papers, assignments, research projects, class participation, etc. They are not required to give a midterm examination, but they should have assigned and graded sufficient work to make a midterm assessment of student performance. The purpose of this midterm report is to make formation advisors aware of students who may need additional support in their academic formation. Final examinations will be scheduled outside of the regular course schedule at the end of each semester. The dates and the times for final examinations are scheduled by the Registrar.

Papers and Written Reports

General Norms: Term papers, research or reaction papers, and theses are to be written in accordance with accepted academic form and style. All papers are to be typed. Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary follows the Chicago Manual of Style, 16th ed. The most recent edition of Kate L. Turabian’s A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses and Dissertations, 8th ed. is also recommended as it includes the rubrics of the Chicago Manual of Style in concise form.

Written Assignments: An instructor may require written assignments which may involve research. Research papers demonstrate the student’s ability to examine a topic, compile an appropriate bibliography, and carry out an acceptable investigation of the question at hand. All written assignments should meet the standards for composition and grammar in accordance with the General Norms provided above.

Assistance with Writing Skills: The seminary offers assistance for students who need help in developing their writing skills. A faculty member may require that a student work with the writing tutor or students may sign up for tutoring themselves.

Accommodation for Disabilities

Students who have specific needs or encounter difficulties in fulfilling the requirements of a course because of a physical limitation, language difficulty, or learning disability, are expected to talk with their instructors for each course as soon as possible in the semester to work out strategies for accommodating their needs. Any questions or concerns about the appropriateness of proposed accommodations should be discussed with the Academic Dean.
Accommodations Regarding Latin and Greek

1. Students who have not completed at least 2 full semesters of Latin in their Pre-Theology program may begin taking Theology Program courses on the understanding that they will not be formally enrolled in the M.Div. or S.T.B. degree program until this lacuna is filled. This may be done as a summer intensive program at an accredited institution any time prior to graduation. The decision about when and where students will complete a Latin summer intensive program will be left to the discretion of the sponsoring diocese.

2. The seminary’s academic handbook states that a student who fails a course should retake the course in order to achieve a passing grade. Students in the Standard Pre-Theology Program who exhibit severe difficulty learning languages will be required to take Latin I and II, and be exempted from the third and fourth semesters. For those students with a documented learning disability, these courses could be taken on a pass/fail basis.

3. Given the additional complexities posed by Greek, advancement into Greek class will be decided on a case-by-case basis for students with a documented learning disability. If seminarians who fall into this category do take Greek, one semester will be deemed sufficient.

Syllabus

The instructor will provide a syllabus to each seminarian on the first day of class. A current copy of the syllabus for every course is kept on file in the Office of the Academic Dean. The syllabus will contain the following information:

1. A brief description of the course and an outline of topics to be covered;
2. A list of required texts for the course;
3. An annually updated list of recommended texts suitable both for students wishing to go deeper into the material of the course and for acquisition by the Cardinal Stafford Library;
4. A list of required reading and written assignments for the course, including a list of dates on which assignments are due;
5. A schedule of examinations;
6. A statement of the grading procedure to be used in the course, indicating what percentage of the final grade is based on papers, assignments, examinations, classroom participation, etc.; and
7. A schedule of office hours during which the instructor is available for consultation and the process for making appointments, should meetings outside of the instructor’s normal office hours be necessary.
Grading System

A standard 4.00 grading system is used to measure academic performance. A 4.00 grade point average marks the highest level of academic achievement at the seminary. Grade point average is calculated by dividing the number of honor points earned by the number of credit hours attempted. Honor points are assigned to grades as follows:

Grading Policies

Notes from table:

(1) A cumulative grade point average of 2.00 ("C") is required for graduation in all degree programs.
(2) "D-" is the lowest passing grade for both the pre-theology and the theology cycle.
(3) A grade of "F" indicates failure to meet the minimum objectives of the course. An "F" may be removed by re-examination or other suitable means, as determined by the instructor and the Cycle Director. Re-examination must be completed by the fourteenth calendar day of the next semester. Otherwise, a failed course must be repeated.
(4) A student is expected to complete all work within the term. The grade of "I" (Incomplete) may be issued only when a student has completed a substantial amount of the required work for the course (normally 80%), and the student’s academic studies are interrupted for a medical emergency or some other just cause beyond the control of the student. An “Incomplete” may not be given simply to allow additional time to complete assigned course work. When an “Incomplete” is granted, the work needed to complete the course, as directed by the instructor, must be submitted on or before the fourteenth calendar day of the next semester. Failure to complete the required work as scheduled will result in a grade of “F” for the course, unless the Academic Dean determines that a just cause requires that a “W” be entered as a permanent record on the transcript.

(5) A “W” designates an approved withdrawal from a course after the end of the second week of class through the end of the tenth week of class. See the Academic Calendar for specific dates.

(6) A grade of “Pass” indicates a student has met the requirements for the course. A grade of “P” is not included in the student’s grade point average.

(7) The designation “TR” shows that credit for a given course was earned at another college, university, or seminary and accepted as “transfer” credit at Saint John Vianney. While approved transfer credits count toward a degree at the seminary, grades earned elsewhere are not transferable and are not included in the calculation of grade point average at Saint John Vianney.

(8) With the approval of the Academic Dean, a student may choose to “Audit” a course. A student receives no grade or credit for an audited course. After the first two weeks of class, a student’s status may not be changed from audit to credit, or vice versa. See “Student Classifications” above for further stipulations regarding class audits.

(9) The designation “R” shows that a student has repeated a course. Only the more recent grade is calculated in the student’s grade point average; the previous grade is replaced with the “R” designation and is not calculated into the cumulative grade point average.

Other than for incompletes and failure retakes discussed in the notes above, course grades that have been submitted and recorded by the Registrar are not changed except in the case of a specific error. The teacher of the course must request the change in writing to the Registrar and Academic Dean.

Academic Honors

The honors qualification with which the degree is conferred is determined by the Registrar on the basis of the grade point average the student obtains in the cycle curriculum courses (70%) together with the combined thesis grade (if one is required for the degree) and comprehensive examination grade (30%). The following table correlates the degree qualifications with the 10-point scale (rounded to nearest quarter point, 0.25) used by the Angelicum and the 4-point scale (rounded to nearest eighth point, 0.125) used by Saint John Vianney:

Academic Probation

The seminary requires all students to perform at or above the 2.00 grade point level in all academic work. Students who perform below a 2.00 grade point average for a semester are placed on academic probation and informed of their status. A notice of their status is also sent to their Academic Advisors and Formation Advisors, the appropriate Cycle Director, and the Rector and Vice Rector of the Seminary.

If a student's cumulative grade point average nears or falls below the 2.00 grade point level, the Academic Dean notifies all of the above parties and calls a meeting of the student's advisors and Cycle Director to discuss adjustments to the student's course load and Projected Plan of Study. Any changes of the Projected Plan of Study are forwarded to the Rector for communication to the student's sponsoring diocese or religious institute.

If the student continues to perform below the 2.00 grade point requirement on the revised Projected Plan of Study, the Academic Dean may recommend to the Rector that the student be withdrawn from the formation program in which he is enrolled.

If a student earns a grade point average of 1.00 or less for courses taken during any single academic year, the Academic Dean may recommend to the Rector that the student be withdrawn from the formation program in which he is enrolled.

Student Discipline

Attendance

Attendance and participation in class are vital to academic success, and students are expected to be present at every meeting of each class for which they are registered. Instructors are at liberty to stipulate in the course syllabus consequences of unexcused absences in the calculation of a student’s final grade. If an instructor notes that a student has more than one unexcused absence from a class, this should be reported to the student’s academic and formation advisors. Absence (whether excused or unexcused) from more than 20% of the meetings scheduled for a course will normally mean the student is subject to administrative withdrawal from the course and will not be permitted to take the final exam for that course.

Punctuality

Prompt class attendance is the norm. Students are expected to arrive at class and be seated prior to the established starting time for the class. Excessive tardiness may affect the final grade in the course.

Academic Integrity

Students are expected to follow a strict honor code in taking examinations and in preparing papers, reports, and class assignments. All work submitted by students in fulfillment of the requirements of a class or seminar must represent their original endeavors. Seminarians are expected to respect academic scholarship by giving proper credit to other people’s work, while at the same time preparing themselves well for assigned materials and examinations, so that their academic integrity will never be questioned. Violation of the honor code is a serious offense which can result in the loss of academic credit or dismissal from the seminary.
Student Complaint Policy

A student who has a dispute with a course instructor concerning the application of policies or criteria published in the Catalogue or in the course syllabus must first seek to address his concern with the faculty member. If the dispute is not resolved in this way, the student may seek the involvement of the Cycle Director and/or the Academic Dean, who will work with the student and the faculty member to find a resolution. If the student is not satisfied with the outcome of this informal process, he may make a formal complaint in writing to the Rector, summarizing the dispute and the steps already taken to resolve it. The Rector will have final authority in the matter.

In addition, the Association of Theological Schools (ATS) accredits the M.Div. program offered at Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary. ATS maintains standards for member institutions, which can be found at www.ats.edu/. Any student who believes that Saint John Vianney has violated ATS accreditation standards should submit his complaint in writing to the Academic Dean. The Academic Dean will respond to the complaints and will maintain a record of formal student complaints for review by the ATS Board.

Confidentiality of Academic Records

Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary complies with the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA, also known as the Buckley Amendment). The seminary accords all the rights under FERPA to students who are enrolled in a program of studies. No one shall have access to, nor does the seminary disclose any information from, students’ education records without the written consent of students except to personnel within the institution with direct educational interest, to accrediting agencies carrying out their accreditation function, to persons in compliance with a judicial order, and to persons in an emergency in order to protect the health or safety of students or other persons. All these exceptions are permitted under the Act.

Within the seminary community, only those members, individually or collectively, acting in the students’ direct educational interest are allowed access to student educational records. These members include formation personnel and academic personnel within the limitation of their “need to know” as determined by the Registrar. Non-directory information, notably grade records, are released to third parties only on written request of the student, or when otherwise required by law (e.g. subpoena).

The Act provides students the right to inspect and review information contained in their education records, to challenge the contents of their education records, to have a hearing if the outcome of the challenge is unsatisfactory, and to submit explanatory statements for inclusion in their files if they feel the hearing panel's decisions are unacceptable. The Registrar's Office has been designated by the Rector to coordinate the inspection and review of procedures for student education records, which include academic files. Students wishing to review their education records must submit a written request to the Registrar listing the item or items of interest. Only records covered in the Act are made available, within 45 days of the request. Education records do not include student health records, employment records, alumni records, or records of instructional, administrative and educational personnel that are the sole possession of the maker.

Students may not inspect and review the following as outlined by the Act: confidential letters and recommendations associated with admissions, employment or job placement, or honors to which they have waived their rights of inspection and review; or education records containing information about more than one student, in which case the seminary permits access only to that part of the record which pertains to the inquiring student. Transcript Requests

All requests for transcripts of coursework taken or degrees earned at Saint John Vianney should be addressed to the Registrar. Release of student information to a third party normally requires a formal request that includes the student's signature.

Official transcripts sent internationally typically require an Apostille from the Colorado Secretary of State's office. This process can take several weeks.

Any requests for change of name on academic records, following a legal name change, should likewise be addressed to the Registrar.

During the 2017-2018 academic year, Saint John Vianney will transition to a new course numbering system. Course numbers are composed of four letters and four digits, which together comprise six significant elements.

Programs
The first two letters designate the educational program.

<table>

Course Strands
The second two letters designate the topical strand or academic discipline.

Program Levels
The first digit designates the educational level of the program. The significance of this designation is seen, for example, in the case of our SEVIS records where the movement from Bachelor's level to Master's has important consequences.

Course Level/Kind
Within an educational program level, especially ones extended over several years, the courses themselves are ordered by levels. Also, differing kinds of courses are usefully distinguished from one another.

Sequence Group
A sequence group is a group of related courses within a course level; there may be no particular principle of order among sequence groups. Within the language strand, for example, each language is distinguished by its a sequence group number: Latin courses are xx-LA-xx0x; Spanish, xx-LA-xx1x; Greek, xx-LA-xx2x; and Hebrew, xx-LA-xx3x.

<td>First sequence group within a course level.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xx1x</td>
<td>Second and so on</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sequence Order
Within a sequence group, one might have straightforward sequences such as xxCHxxx1 Church History I and xxCHxxx2 Church History II, but one might also have a standalone xxCHxxx0 Survey of Church History that covers similar content in a different format.

Tutorial Sections
Special tutorial courses can be created using a x9xx number, but regular courses taught on a tutorial basis will simply be set up as separate sections of the regular course.
Enculturation Program

EN-CU-0700 Enculturation and Spirituality Practicum (12 credits) This is a practicum course adapted to the needs of individual students as they begin the process of spiritual formation in a different cultural context. After an initial assessment of the student’s educational and formational background, he receives instruction in enculturation topics, spiritual formation topics, study strategies and language skills, and fundamentals of philosophy and theology. The amount of time allotted to these activities varies according to the student’s needs, but it is required for all students enrolled in an enculturation program. Students may be enrolled for 3 to 12 credits per semester.

EN-CU-1300 Sacred Music (3 credits) This is a cross listed course. See PT-CU-1300 Sacred Music for full course description.
Prerequisite: Permission of Cycle Director

EN-DO-1400 Introduction to Theology (3 credits) This is a cross listed course. See PT-DO-1300 Introduction to Theology for full course description.
Prerequisite: Permission of Cycle Director

EN-PS-0200 (prev PHIL0050) Philosophical Review (3 credits) Tutorial support for students who struggle with the conceptual and linguistic demands of their philosophy courses.

EN-PH-0201 Academic Enculturation: Ancient Sources (3 credits) This is a course of supplemental readings and writing assignments intended to prepare students for the demands of their philosophy courses.

EN-PH-0202 Academic Enculturation: Medieval Sources (3 credits) This is a course of supplemental readings and writing assignments intended to prepare students for the demands of their philosophy courses.

EN-PH-1301 History of Ancient Philosophy (3 credits) This is a cross listed course. See PT-PH-1301 History of Ancient Philosophy for full course description.

SY-CA-0101 Walk Through the Catechism 1 (1 credit) This is the first semester of a year-long survey of the Catechism of the Catholic Church.

SY-CA-0102 Walk Through the Catechism 2 (1 credit) This is the second semester of a year-long survey of the Catechism of the Catholic Church.

SY-FP-0600 Formation in Priestly Character (1 credit) Prayer is central to the Spirituality Year. Six days a week, seminarians spend an hour in silent prayer before the Blessed Sacrament. This encounter flows from and leads back to the daily celebration of the Holy Mass. The life of prayer is supported by the recitation of the Divine Office as well as by instruction on prayer as described in the Catechism of the Catholic Church and on the teachings of great spiritual masters with a reliance on Ignatian spirituality and rules of discernment. A normal day involves 2 1/2 to 3 hours of communal and silent prayer. Moreover, this year includes a media fast, a sign of turning from the world and toward Christ. Seminarians refrain from using phones, television, computers, popular media, and other electronic devices every day except for Saturday (access to these is allowed on Saturdays so that seminarians may stay connected to family and friends to a reasonable degree). Seminarians invariably develop a new freedom as well as a stilling of the heart. Finally, students pursue a life of Christian charity in community. The seminarians pray, study, work, and recreate together. These activities in common enable the seminarians to grow in self-knowledge, form friendships, and grow in the mutual sense of being called to share in Christ’s call and mission.

SY-MO-0101 Spiritual Classics 1 (1 credit) This is the first semester of a year-long survey of the Great Spiritual Works of the Catholic tradition.

SY-MO-0102 Spiritual Classics 2 (1 credit) This is the second semester of a year-long survey of the Great Spiritual Works of the Catholic tradition.

SY-PA-0101 Topics in Priestly Identity 1 (1 credit) Beginning with an overview of the Pope John Paul II’s Pastores dabo vobis, this course uses guest speakers, conferences, and instructive videos to address a wide range of topics pertaining to the nature of the priesthood and priestly ministry.

SY-PA-0102 Topics in Priestly Identity 2 (1 credit) This is the second semester of a course devoted to a wide range of topics pertaining to the nature of the priesthood and priestly ministry.

SY-PF-0800 Apostolic Field Assignment (1 credit) An assigned weekly apostolic activity, such as visiting the elderly, teaching young people, or ministering to the sick.

SY-PF-0810 Thirty-Day Immersion (8 credits) In January seminarians are sent out “two by two” for one month to be immersed in the lives of the poor as they serve in diverse apostolates, such as homeless shelters, Indian reservations, and the homes of the extremely poor. This experience gives seminarians the opportunity to bring Jesus to the poor, find our Lord in the poor, and practice relying on the Providential Love of the Father.

SY-SF-0700 Ignatian Thirty-Day Retreat (8 credits) The capstone of the Spirituality Year is the classic thirty-day retreat based on the Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius of Loyola.

SY-SS-0101 Walk Through the Bible 1 (1 credit) This is the first semester of a year-long survey of the Old and New Testaments, which is combined with a suggested daily schedule of readings that will enable the student to finish the whole Bible in the course of the year.

SY-SS-0102 Walk Through the Bible 2 (1 credit) This is the second semester of a year-long survey of the Old and New Testaments.
Pre-Theology Program

Cultural Studies
PT-CU-1300 (prev THEO1560) Sacred Music (3 credits) This introductory course in sacred music explores the use of music within the Catholic Church: its beginnings; its place within the liturgy; its change in expression through time, both textually and musically; and its affect upon the culture of the time. Some consideration will also be given to speculation on its future.

Dogmatic Theology
PT-DO-1300 (prev THEO1025) Introduction to Theology (3 credits) This course introduces the nature, scope and method of theological research with an eye to priestly formation and ministry.

PT-DO-1400 (prev THEO2025) Introduction to the Theology of St. Thomas Aquinas (3 credits) This course offers an introduction to the theology of St. Thomas Aquinas, whom Pope Leo XIII called “that peerless man.” Following the dictum of the same pope, that teachers should “take care that the wisdom of Thomas be drawn from his own fountain,” the course will focus on his own works with some commentaries drawn in to elucidate the general lines of his theology.

Prerequisite Courses:
PT-PH-1302 History of Medieval Philosophy
PT-PS-1315 Philosophy of God

Formation in Priestly Character
PT-FP-1600 Formation in Priestly Character (5 credits) Prayer and community life are essential ingredients in the formation of a priestly identity and character. Much of a seminarian’s day is taken up with common prayer, common meals, and other community activities. There are also conferences and retreats that are required each year.

Homiletics
PT-HO-1300 (prev PHIL2050) Theological Rhetoric (3 credits) The course is designed for seminarians and focuses on the munus docendi and on the priest as the primary catechist. The goal is to treat rhetoric theologically so that the classical philosophical tradition is theologically reformulated and treated as a handmaiden for the office of teacher. The class procedure will usually involve a presentation of the natural principles of rhetoric by a philosopher followed by the theological development and application of those principles by a theologian. The course makes extensive use of examples. Class participation is emphasized.

Prerequisite Courses:
PT-PS-1300 PT-PS-1301
Philosophical Methods Logic

Languages
PT-LA-1101 (prev LATI1001) Latin I (3 credits) Latin remains alive in the liturgy and official documents of the Church. An understanding of Catholic tradition is immeasurably enriched by familiarity with its own language, which is why the Church stipulates that seminarians must become “well versed in Latin” (canon 249). This introductory course is the first step toward that worthy goal.

PT-LA-1102 (prev LATI1002) Latin II (3 credits) This second course continues the study of basic ecclesiastical Latin grammar and vocabulary. In addition, students learn some Latin prayers by heart and read sections of the Mass in Latin. Attention is paid to the correct ecclesiastical pronunciation of Latin.

Prerequisite Courses:
PT-LA-1101 Latin I
PT-LA-1110 (prev SPAN2040) Introductory Spanish Immersion (9 credits) This is a beginning language course, which assumes no prior knowledge or experience with the Spanish language. This course uses a variety of language teaching approaches to help students achieve the mastery of all four basic language skills: listening, speaking, reading and writing. At the same time students will become familiar with some of the most important devotions and popular piety of the Mexican people and their cultural traits. At the beginning, emphasis will be given to listening comprehension and oral skills. As the course progresses all skills will be incorporated.

PT-LA-1130 (prev HEBR2010) Biblical Hebrew (3 credits) Through a combination of deductive and inductive methods, the students will learn to read, understand and even speak some basic Biblical Hebrew after a relatively short amount of time. The basic elements of Hebrew morphology and syntax will be presented, and beginning early on in the course, we will learn to read directly from the text of the Tanach (Old Testament). Significant parts of the class will be conducted using the “ulpan” (immersion) method, that is, teaching Biblical Hebrew intuitively as a “living” language, with many of the class discussions and explanations conducted in Hebrew.

PT-LA-1201 (prev LATI2003) Latin III (3 credits) This third semester concludes the study of basic ecclesiastical Latin grammar. Students translate continuous passages in easy Latin prose. By the end of the semester, students should be familiar with the ordinary of the Mass in Latin and have a modest reading knowledge of Latin.

Prerequisite Courses:
PT-LA-1102 Latin II

PT-LA-1202 Latin IV (3 credits) This is a reading course meant not only to solidify the grammar and syntax acquired in the previous three semesters, but also to introduce the student to more refined and complex patterns of Latin style. The ultimate goal is to reach an intermediate to advanced reading fluency. Although ecclesiastical Latin extends from the first century to the present day, readings will be chosen primarily from the early Church and medieval era, with special focus on Augustine and Aquinas. Students will also read some Renaissance and post-Renaissance passages so that they can become familiar with the style of contemporary ecclesiastical Latin. (Note: Students in the Standard Pre-Theology Program enroll in the 2-credit version, PT-LA-1203.)

Prerequisite Courses:
PT-LA-1102 Latin II

PT-LA-1203 Latin IV (2 credits) This is a cross listed course. It is a 2-credit version of PT-LA-1202 Latin IV for non-B.Phil. students, who will attend for 26 class meetings.

PT-LA-1300 (prev LATI3000) Readings in Latin (3 credits) This is an elective course intended for those students who wish to gain greater fluency in reading Latin. A thorough knowledge of Latin grammar is presupposed. The focus of the course is on translation and the problems associated with the work of a translator.

Prerequisite Courses:
PT-LA-1202 Latin IV

Pastoral Field Assignments

PT-PF-1800 Apostolic Field Assignment (1 credit) The Apostolate is an integral part of the formation of each seminarian. During each academic year, the seminarian is engaged in a continuing ministry with schools, parishes, nursing homes, outreach organizations, and hospitals. The apostolic service requires a 3-4 hour commitment weekly. During the semester, he receives valuable critique to strengthen his ministerial presence and skills. Each seminarian is responsible to the Director of Pastoral Formation who administers the assignments and completes a formal evaluation each year.
Historical Philosophy

PT-PH-1301 (prev PHIL1004) History of Ancient Philosophy (3 credits) This course will introduce students to the most important ideas and most influential philosophers of the ancient West. These thinkers and their ideas have had a profound impact on the development of Catholic theology, and understanding them is an essential foundation for study of theology.

PT-PH-1302 (prev PHIL1009) History of Medieval Philosophy (3 credits) The purpose of this course is to introduce the student to Medieval philosophy, philosophy in the Age of Faith. Although we will briefly look at Islamic and Jewish philosophical thought, this course will largely concern itself with the philosophical thinking of the Christian West. We will consider issues such as faith and reason, the existence of God, the relation of the will and the intellect, the emotions, the problem of evil, the challenge of Aristotle, and the breakdown of the Medieval synthesis. Whenever possible, we will read original texts. We will focus on single works written by significant authors, although with some thinkers we will read small selections from their work. We will read Augustine’s Confessions and Boethius’ Consolation of Philosophy since, for over a thousand years, they were among the most widely read books in the Christian West. We will consider the Augustinian origins of Anselm’s famous Proslogium argument for the existence of God and its reformulation in Aristotelian terms by St. Bonaventure. In reading Aquinas, we will focus on the passions and the relationship of intellect and will. The course concludes with short selections from Duns Scotus and William of Ockham.

Prerequisite Courses:

PT-PH-1301
PT-PS-1310

History of Ancient Philosophy
Metaphysics

PT-PH-1303 (prev PHIL2004) History of Modern Philosophy (3 credits) The aim of this course is to introduce students to several of the major thinkers and ideas from the past three centuries of Western philosophy. Topics will include German idealism, theistic and atheistic existentialism, language theory, phenomenology, neo-Thomism, hermeneutics, and postmodernism. Particular attention will be paid to the ways in which these philosophies interact with and are integrated into Catholic philosophy.

Prerequisite Courses:

PT-PH-1302
PT-LA-1202

History of Medieval Philosophy
Latin IV

Systematic Philosophy

PT-PS-1300 (prev PHIL1005, PHIL1015) Philosophical Methods (1 credit) This is an introductory course in philosophical methodology and explores the relationship between reason and faith. The course will focus on St. John Paul II’s encyclical Fides et Ratio as well as classic and contemporary authors including St. Augustine and St. Thomas Aquinas. The course will also explore the relationship between philosophy and theology.
PT-PS-1301 (prev PHIL1005, PHIL1016) Logic (2 credits) This course seeks to promote the critical thinking skills of seminarians through the study of Aristotelian logic. Students will learn to recognize arguments, to identify premises and conclusions, to evaluate deductive and non-deductive arguments, to distinguish forms of definitions and to recognize formal and informal fallacies.

PT-PS-1310 (prev PHIL1008) Metaphysics (3 credits) Beginning with the question of being itself, this course will examine the transcendental and analogous properties of being; the fundamental structures of reality, including act and potency, essence and existence, form and matter, substance and accident; and the causes of being and becoming. Modern and contemporary views of being and change are examined and evaluated against the backdrop of an Aristotelian-Thomistic metaphysics.

PT-PS-1315 (prev PHIL1003) Philosophy of God (3 credits) This course is designed to introduce students to the philosophical study of God. Questions to be examined include whether the existence of God is susceptible to rational demonstration, what is meant by the name God, and what can be known about the nature of a transcendent Supreme Being. The objection that the existence of evil is incompatible with the existence of an all-good, all-powerful God will also be considered.

Prerequisite Courses:

| PT-PS-1310 | PT-PH-1301 |
| Metaphysics | History of Ancient Philosophy |

PT-PS-1400 (prev PHIL2006) Ethics (3 credits) This course involves a survey of classical theories of ethics with a special emphasis on virtue theory and natural law. Themes such as voluntary and involuntary actions, conscience, derivation of norms, moral value, development of human character, happiness, friendship, and love will be included. Ethical theories based on rationalism, utilitarianism, relativism, emotivism, etc. will also be critically examined.

Prerequisite Courses:

| PT-PH-1302 |
| History of Medieval Philosophy |

PT-PS-1405 (prev PHIL1007) Epistemology (3 credits) This course is a systematic treatment of knowledge and truth in the realist tradition. Students examine classic texts within the realist tradition and study contemporary challenges to it. The treatment of epistemology includes a discussion of the foundations of knowledge and challenges posed by relativism and conventionalism as well as strictly formal and conceptual systems akin to mathematics. In addition to examining the nature of knowledge and its relation to belief, opinion, and error, students will discuss perception, abstraction, insight, truth and certitude, and conclude with a discussion of scientific knowledge and its relation to perceptual knowledge.

Prerequisite Courses:

| PT-PS-1300 | PT-PS-1301 |
| History of Modern Philosophy | Philosophical Methods Logic |

PT-PS-1410 (prev PHIL2012) Philosophy of Nature and Science (3 credits) This is a course in the philosophy of nature and science for seminarians. We will address four basic and related questions: What is nature? What is modern science? What is the relationship of the modern sciences to philosophy? What is the relationship of the modern sciences to religion generally and to Catholicism in particular? The first part of the course considers basic principles and issues concerning the relations of science, religious faith, and philosophy. The second part of the course considers these principles in what might be called case studies. We will discuss the Copernican Revolution, the Galileo case, reductionism, Big Bang cosmology, the Anthropic Principle, and the Theory of Evolution.

Prerequisite Courses:

| PT-PS-1300 | PT-PS-1315 |
| Philosophical Methods | Philosophy of God |

PT-PS-1415 (prev PHIL1010) Philosophical Anthropology (3 credits) This course aims at offering an integral philosophical vision of the human person. We will briefly review the Thomistic understanding of the human person as a body/soul composite previously studied in medieval philosophy. Building on this Thomistic foundation, the course will study Karol Wojtya's
The Acting Person in light of its major sources (Thomas Aquinas, Saint John of the Cross, and Max Scheler). We will concentrate on the integral vision of the human person offered by the Polish philosopher by closely studying its five main aspects: consciousness, efficacy, transcendence, integration in the person, and participation (or integration between persons).

PT-PS-1417 (prev PHIL2009) Social and Political Philosophy (3 credits) This course will explore how modern and contemporary philosophy have approached the relationships among the individual, the community, and economic and political structures. In particular, the course will consider how capitalism and the philosophies of Rousseau, Mill, and Marx have shaped our contemporary understanding of the relationship between the person and the community. In response to these writers we will consider the contemporary Catholic understanding as found in thinkers including Jacques Maritain, Yves Simon, and G.K. Chesterton as well as in several of the social encyclicals. We will explore the ideas of the common good, subsidiarity, and distributism. The course will conclude with consideration of the relationship between church and state in contemporary society.

PT-PS-1429 (prev PHIL2999) Oral Comprehensive Exam Preparation (1 credit) Upon completion of his course work, a student completing the Standard Pre-Theology Program is required to pass an oral comprehensive exam set by the Pre-Theology Faculty.

Prerequisite: Completion of all Standard Program coursework

PT-PS-1439 Written Comprehensive Examination (3 credits) Upon completion of his course work a student is required to pass a written comprehensive exam set by the Philosophy Faculty.

Prerequisite: Completion of all B.Phil. coursework

Advanced Philosophical Topics

PT-PT-1500 (prev PHIL2350) Plato (3 credits) The aim of this course is to allow students the opportunity to build on what they learn in History of Ancient Philosophy by exploring in greater depth and breadth the philosophy of Plato. This course will focus on five Platonic dialogues: Euthyphro, Gorgias, Meno, Phaedo, and Timaeus. In addition, we will read Republic Book X. Particular attention will be paid to the Plato’s understanding of the task of philosophy, his theories of knowledge and reality and the relationship between myth and philosophy. Other themes addressed will include theories of the soul, education, and virtue. The dialogues will also be analyzed in terms of their dramatic structure.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1505 (prev PHIL2350) Neoplatonic Thinkers (3 credits) This course will examine the origin and transmission of Neoplatonism, one of the most influential forces in the development of medieval philosophy and theology. After studying the origins of Neoplatonism in Plotinus (d.270) and Proclus (d.485), the course will take up some of the most important writers by whom it was transmitted to medieval Christian thinkers: Augustine (d.430), pseudo-Dionysius (late 5th c.), the author of the Liber de causis (late 9th c.), and Thomas Aquinas (d.1274). Among the ideas we will examine in depth: the nature of God; negative theology; the Divine Ideas; the principle “the Good is diffusive of itself”; the One and the Many; and freedom vs. necessity.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1507 (prev PHIL2350) Husserl and the Phenomenological Movement (3 credits) Phenomenology has been one of the most influential movements in philosophy since its inception over one hundred years ago. The use of phenomenology in the writings St. Edith Stein, St. John Paul II and others demonstrates the importance of phenomenology in contemporary Catholic philosophy. The aim of the course is to develop the student’s understanding of the phenomenological method and to explore the use of this method in the philosophical understanding of the person, intersubjectivity and ethics. The course will begin with an analysis of the writings of the Edmund Husserl, the founder of phenomenology and move on to a consideration of some of the important thinkers in the phenomenological movement.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1510 (prev PHIL2350) French Personalism (3 credits) This course explores the philosophy of personalism as it developed in France between the World Wars. This school of thought was a particularly Catholic philosophical alternative to the dominant views of the person as either an isolated individual or a mere member of a collective. The course focuses on the two major thinkers in this movement, Jacques Maritain and Emmanuel Mounier, and explores the historical, political, social and economic conditions which gave rise to this school of thought. It also considers the role personalists played in rejuvenating the influence of Catholic philosophy on French culture. The course concludes with a consideration of the influence of French Personalism on contemporary Catholic thought.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1517 (prev PHIL2350) Heart and Spirit: A Dialogue between Dietrich von Hildebrand and Thomas Aquinas (3 credits) It is not uncommon for philosophical and theological discourse to appeal to the notion of ‘the heart.’ Yet, what is exactly signified by ‘the heart’? Does an integral view of the human person need to include ‘the heart’ as a third spiritual faculty, wherein one experiences the highest realms of one’s affectivity? Is a philosophical anthropology reductionistic when the heart is not considered as a third spiritual faculty at the same level of but distinct from the intellect and the will? This course explores these interesting and relevant questions from the perspective of philosophical anthropology by recreating a sort of dialogue between the Phenomenological and the Thomistic tradition.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1530 (prev PHIL2350) Aquinas, Cosmology, and the Perfection of the Universe (3 credits) This is an introductory course in philosophical cosmology. By ‘cosmology’ we mean the study of the universe considered as a whole together with the study of its principle parts and operations. The course is intended to engage Big Bang cosmology with the philosophical thought of St. Thomas Aquinas on the universe. The achievements of scientific cosmology in the last 100 years have been extraordinary and include what some call the recovery of the very notion of ‘universe’. We will present and discuss some of the most important characteristics of this cosmology—the structure and dynamics of the universe—and the evidence supporting it. In addition, modern scientific cosmology increasingly draws upon and includes the other physical sciences and, thus, offers a profoundly broad, varied, and unifying vision of the universe. It also raises fundamental questions that go beyond the sciences. Cosmologists themselves also make different philosophical assumptions. Yet, philosophical thinking about the universe is in a somewhat underdeveloped state. Aquinas offers profound philosophical reflections on the universe but they are associated with a long discarded cosmological model. We will consider Aquinas’ philosophical understanding of the universe as distinct from the particular historical cosmology in which it was instantiated. We will be especially concerned with the notion of creation, with the relation of perfection to the universe, with the importance of intellectual creatures to that perfection, and with the end of the universe.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1537 (prev PHIL2350) Philosophy and the Embryo (3 credits) The goal of this course is a comprehensive understanding of the history of philosophical views of the human embryo and the current disputed questions regarding its status. The course begins with a review of the most current scientific understanding of the embryo and then turns to an examination of the views of Hippocrates, Aristotle, interpreters of Exodus 21: 22-25, Tertullian, Origen, Jerome, Augustine, Boethius, Richard of St. Victor, Thomas Aquinas, Descartes, Locke, J.S. Mill, Marcel, Joseph Fletcher, Judith Jarvis Thomson, the US Supreme Court’s decision in Roe vs. Wade, Great Britain’s Warnock Commission, and Peter Singer. Among the questions carefully considered are the timing of ensoulment, the source of the human soul, the effect of hylomorphic anthropology on views of the embryo, the characteristics of a person, and the obligations of the state toward persons.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1540 (prev PHIL2350) Conjugal Friendship and the Public Square (3 credits)

Accepting St. John Paul II’s invitation in Familiaris Consortio 31, this course offers a philosophical study of the essence of marriage as conjugal friendship and its importance for the public sphere of political ethics. The course will be divided into three parts. The first one will be dedicated to the contemporary Catholic and philosophical attempt to present “the conjugal view of marriage,” within the context of the current debate about the “redefinition” of marriage. The second part will study the Aristotelian and Thomistic understanding of marriage as conjugal friendship in light of Karol Wojtyla’s reflections in Love and Responsibility. The third and last part of the course will analyze the relationship of marriage as conjugal friendship and the common good of the constitutional democratic state.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1545 (prev PHIL2350) The Political and Social Philosophy of the American Founding (3 credits)

In this course, we are concerned with important documents related to the founding of the United States of America and the years following to the time of the Civil War. We shall treat of the relation of the Constitution of the United States to the Declaration of Independence, of the understanding and logic of the Constitution reflected in the Federalist Papers, and of the character of the Supreme Court as reflected in two important decisions. In the statement of the Monroe Doctrine, we want to achieve some insight as to how the fledging United States saw itself with respect to other countries and in de Tocqueville’s Democracy in America, we want to consider how an intelligent European saw the early United States. On the principle that certain philosophical aspects of the American founding become clearer in later years, we will consider several of Lincoln’s speeches at the time of the American Civil War. Finally, time permitting, we aim to consider two American Catholics, Charles Carroll, the only Catholic to sign the Declaration of Independence, and Orestes Brownson, a 19th Century Catholic thinker whose reflection on the American system continues to receive attention.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1547 (prev PHIL2350) The Philosophy of Neuroscience (3 credits)

Recent discoveries in neuroscience have stimulated considerable speculation and philosophical interest. Brain scanning techniques especially have been used to make far reaching reductionist claims about consciousness, human cognition, free will, and personal identity. We will consider the methodology of these techniques as well as various important experiments. We will address issues of the unity of the human person, consciousness, free will, the immateriality of the intellect and will, and the soul.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1560 (prev PHIL2350) Philosophy of Art (3 credits)

This course will explore themes in the philosophy of art through an historical approach. We will read selections from Plato, Aristotle, Plotinus, St. Augustine, Maritain, Kant, Nietzsche, Heidegger and Danto. We will focus on questions concerning the nature of art and beauty, the relationship between art and truth, and the role of art in society.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1563 (prev PHIL2350) Philosophy in the Writings of C.S. Lewis (3 credits)

This course focuses on the thought and work of C.S. Lewis. Our concern will be with philosophy and its use in Lewis’ work. We will read works selected on the basis of a connection to a specific theme. The course may be repeated using different themes, such as Lewis’ understanding of the human person, his thought on morals and ethics, his treatment of suffering and evil, his philosophy of literary criticism and the relation of the imagination to the intellect, or his thought about miracles, naturalism, and science. Course texts will be selected according to the theme. We will emphasize the different genres in which Lewis wrote. Both fiction and non-fiction works will be considered.
Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1565 (prev PHIL2350) Philosophy of Literature (3 credits) The aim of this course is to investigate the philosophical questions inherent in literature. We will be concerned with the contemporary philosophical understanding of the nature and aims of literature. Our focus will be on the relationship between the imagination and literature, the role of literature in the task of self-understanding and the ethical and political role which literature plays in our society. We will consider four philosophical approaches to literature: Martin Heidegger’s phenomenological approach, Jean-Paul Sartre’s Marxist-existentialist approach, Martha Nussbaum’s neo-Aristotelian approach and Umberto Eco’s postmodern approach. The course also entails reading literary texts as a way of exemplifying, applying and evaluating the philosophical theories.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1567 (prev PHIL2350) Virtue and the Good Life: The Novels of Jane Austen (3 credits) Alisdaire MacIntyre has described the work of Jane Austen as the last great representative of the classical tradition of virtues. Drawing on students' previous acquaintance with the treatment of virtue by Aristotle and St. Thomas Aquinas as well as the alternative ethical theories of utilitarianism and deontology, Austen's novels will serve as a setting for employing and deepening understanding of the principles of virtue ethics. We will read, discuss and write about three novels (Pride and Prejudice, Sense and Sensibility, and Emma) in which Austen's heroines and heroes suffer lack of a particular virtue and must undergo significant conversion, and a fourth novel (Persuasion) in which the hero and heroine are mature and well established in virtue but must navigate various difficult circumstances in order to achieve a friendship which will allow both to thrive in this life. The following themes will be traced in the interior and exterior actions of Austen's characters as they progress (or in some cases languish or spiral downward) in their moral and human formation: the importance of various forms of friendship; the proper role of shame; self-knowledge and capacity for examination of conscience; habituation; freedom of conscience and perseverance in coercive circumstances; and the experience of tension between pursuit of temporal and eternal happiness. Students will be required to do research into secondary literature on Aristotle and Aquinas in developing their written work on Austen's characters.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1570 (prev PHIL2350) Freedom, Conscience, and Truth: A Thomistic Reading of Oscar Wilde's The Picture of Dorian Gray (3 credits) This course analyzes Oscar Wilde’s The Picture of Dorian Gray from the viewpoint of Thomas Aquinas’s teachings on freedom, conscience, and truth. The first part of the course deals with a synthetic study of the Angelic Doctor's basic texts on these topics. The second part uses that synthetic study in order to analyze in detail Oscar Wilde’s work.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle

PT-PT-1575 (prev PHIL2350) A Philosophical and Thomistic Reading of Karol Wojtyla’s Theater-Plays (3 credits) Karol Wojtyla has been a philosopher, a theologian, and a poet. This course aims to disclose the philosophical worldview (Weltanschauung) present in his theater plays. The course deals first with a synthetic and introductory presentation of his philosophy. The second part of the course uses that synthesis in order to analytically go through his theater plays disclosing their metaphysical, anthropological, and ethical richness. Throughout this analysis we will highlight the numerous points of contact with the thought of Saint Thomas Aquinas.

Prerequisite: Completion of all philosophy courses in the first year Pre-Theology Cycle
Theology Program

Church History

TH-CH-2100 (prev THEO3230) Patristics (3 credits) This course explores the life and theology of the early Church and includes a close reading of selected writings from the Pre- and Post-Nicene Fathers.

TH-CH-2201 (prev THEO4125) Church History I (3 credits) In this course students are introduced to the history of the universal Church, both East and West, from the beginning of the Christian community to the fall of Constantinople. Special attention is paid to issues of historiography, enculturation, and the socio-political framework of ecclesiastical developments.

TH-CH-2202 (prev THEO4245) Church History II (4 credits) This course provides a survey of the history of the Church from the fall of Constantinople to the beginning of the 21st century. Attention is paid to significant social, cultural and political developments, important events in the life of the Catholic Church, and new trends that have emerged in the late modern/early post-modern period. The final unit of the course undertakes a brief look at the history of the Church in the United States.

Canon Law

TH-CL-2101 (prev THEO4145) Canon Law I: Introduction to Canon Law (2 credits) This course introduces students to the law of the Catholic Church, covering Books I, II, and III of the Code of Canon Law. Basic juridical concepts, such as ecclesiastical law, ecclesiastical offices, physical and juridic persons, and juridic acts, found in Book I, “General Norms”, provide the foundation for the study of canon law. Book II, “The People of God”, offers a view of the structure of the Church, the formation, rights, and responsibilities of clerics, consecrated persons, and lay people. The course concludes with a brief examination of Book III, “The Teaching Office of the Church”.

TH-CL-2102 (prev THEO4250) Canon Law II (2 credits) This course will be an extensive study of the canons of the Western Church regarding the Sacraments, exclusive of Marriage. Pastoral implications related to the study of the canonical aspects of the sacramental life of the Church will be emphasized, drawing especially on the canons’ foundation in the Second Vatican Council. Archdiocesan and diocesan guidelines for the celebration of the sacraments will also be incorporated.

TH-CL-2103 (prev THEO6115) Canon Law III (2 credits) Canon Law III offers the student an introduction to matrimonial law, procedural law and penal law in the Western Church. The majority of the course concerns a detailed analysis of matrimonial consent. The analysis will include both the positive aspects which constitute matrimonial consent, as well as the deficits which are capable of rendering a marriage invalid. Procedural law will be examined in regards to both marriage nullity and penal sanctions within the Church. The course will conclude with a survey of penal law in the Code of Canon Law.

Dogmatic Theology

TH-DO-2100 (prev THEO3120) Fundamental Theology (4 credits) Fundamental Theology provides a general introduction to the Christian Revelation and its credibility. The first part of the course studies the Revelation in Holy Scripture, Tradition and in the living magisterium of the Church. This part of the course, centered on Jesus Christ as plentitude and fullness of the Revelation, ends with the study of man’s answer to His Word in the act of faith. The second part reflects on the signs of credibility of the Christian revelation, mainly the historicity of Jesus’ person and redemptive work, his miracles and resurrection, and on the Church as a living sign of the credibility of God’s revelation.

TH-DO-2105 (prev THEO4115) Christology (3 credits) This course provides a comprehensive survey of Christology. It begins with the scriptural foundation of the Church’s faith in Jesus Christ and then considers the historical and systematic development of that faith through the centuries.

TH-DO-2200 (prev THEO3250) Trinity: The One and Triune God (3 credits) This course begins with pre-Christian understandings of the divine and moves on to examine the scriptural, historical, and systematic development of the central Christian confession that the one God is Father, Son, and Spirit.

TH-DO-2205 (prev THEO5220) Ecclesiology and Ecumenism (3 credits) This course elaborates the dogmatic foundations of the Church’s teaching about herself as “the visible plan of God’s love for humanity” (CCC 776). It will trace her origin in the mystery of the Trinity itself, her preparation in the Old Covenant and establishment by Christ as the New and Eternal Covenant by the work of the Holy Spirit. The Church will be considered as People of God, Body and Bride of Christ, Temple of the Holy Spirit, and her properties will be analyzed by way of the Four Marks of the Church as One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic. In reference to these last, the course will include a final unit on Ecumenism.

TH-DO-2300 (prev THEO5120) Theological Anthropology and Eschatology (4 credits) The aim of this course is to introduce students to the Catholic doctrine of man in his created, fallen, redeemed, and glorified states. Accordingly, the course will cover such themes as the image of God, male and female, temptation and sin, body and soul, individual and community, as well as the doctrine of grace. With a proper anthropology as a background, the major themes of eschatology will be taken up: immortality, resurrection of the body, millenarianism, death, judgment, hell, purgatory, and heaven—with special attention to modern theological developments and controversies.

TH-DO-2310 (prev THEO6210) Mariology (2 credits) This course surveys the position of the Mother of God in the economy of salvation and her contribution to her Son’s redemptive work. It introduces the study of the mystery of Mary, providing a basic biblical and theological knowledge as well as the history of the Marian dogmas.

TH-DO-2400 (prev THEO6140) Evangelization and Catechesis (3 credits) This course will provide seminarians with the basic skills and the orientation necessary for the pastoral task of being the primary parochial evangelist and catechist. It includes a study of the biblical and patristic sources, a survey of the history of catechetical methods, and the magisterial mandate for modern catechesis as disclosed in the General and National Directory for Catechesis and the Catechism of the Catholic Church, as well as other documents, such as Evangelii Nuntiandi. Further attention will be given to an evaluation of current trends in catechetical theory, parochial practice, and the evaluation of current catechetical materials, as well as the structure and implementation of a parish program for evangelization and catechesis for the RCIA.

Formation in Priestly Character

TH-FP-2600 Formation in Priestly Character (5 credits) Prayer and community life are essential ingredients in the formation of a priestly identity and character. Much of a seminarian’s day is taken up with common prayer, common meals, and other community activities. There are also conferences and retreats that are required each year.

Homiletics

TH-HO-2101 (prev THEO4155) Homiletics I (2 credits) This course introduces the seminarian to the skills necessary for effective preaching. Emphasis is placed on the history of homiletics in the Church and a review of various styles of preaching (catechetical, intercultural, narrative, Sunday, weekday and others). The course requires the integration of course material from the study of theology. It also requires delivery and critique of short video homilies.

TH-HO-2102 (prev THEO4255) Homiletics II (2 credits) This course trains seminarians in advanced tools for writing, researching, and presenting homilies that have clarity, effectiveness and authority. Skills in the forms of communication and the art of proclaiming the homily are studied. Topics include how to craft a homily, add illustrations, include current events, grab the listener’s attention, and integrate scripture that is more than a reference. Seminarians will also examine the concept of using their voice and body in delivering a homily. In addition, classes will discuss the relevance of homilies in the lives of the faithful, reviewing surveys of same.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-HO-2101
Homiletics I

TH-HO-2201 (prev THEO5155) Homiletics III (2 credits) This course on the art of preaching will have an introductory section on certain fundamental aspects of the homily and its preparation, concentrating on learning from the preaching of the Fathers of the Church, most especially Saint Augustine. After reviewing these foundational elements, the course will focus on the practical preparation and preaching of homilies.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-HO-2102
Homiletics II

TH-HO-2202 (prev THEO5255) Homiletics IV (2 credits) This course seeks to reunite interpretation and proclamation. The preaching of the early Church Fathers focused on the tropological sense of Scripture, referred to by the Catechism as the “moral sense.” The methods for reading the text with emphasis on the entirety of its final form are referred to as Narrative Criticism and Canonical Criticism. This includes the use of the methodology of intertextuality. Narrative preaching takes up the best of the kerygmatic preaching of the Patristic Period with the classic Catholic approach to preaching based on the “moral sense” of the Medieval Period. The course includes both a lecture and lab component.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-HO-2201
Homiletics III

TH-LA-2122 (prev GREE3220) Greek II (3 credits) In this second semester, students continue the study of New Testament Greek grammar. Focus in this semester is on verbs. The exercises in the workbook are largely drawn from New Testament authors so that students are exposed to ‘real’ Greek at an early stage.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-LA-2121
Greek I

TH-LA-2123 (prev GREE4130) Greek III (2 credits) While Greek grammar continues to be studied in this course, there is increased emphasis on reading continuous passages from the New Testament. Students are introduced to the use of the apparatus criticus and to a few notorious textual cruces. By the end of this course, students should be able to read with understanding the easier portions of the New Testament in Greek with the aid of a dictionary.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-LA-2122
Greek II

TH-LA-2130 (prev HEBR1010) Hebrew Remedial (1 credit) This is a minimal introduction to basic elements of Hebrew for students who did not take Hebrew prior to their Theology studies.

Liturgical Practica

TH-LP-2100 (prev THEO3140) Liturgical Practicum: Lector (1 credit) This course prepares seminarians for service in the ministry of Lector. It begins with the presentation of the history of the ministry of Lector and then continues with an instructional methodology of practice and critique. The course goal is that the students demonstrate an effective ability to communicate in a spoken form when reading/lectoring from Holy Scripture by teaching techniques of articulation, intonation, phonation, variation, projection, diction.

TH-LP-2200 (prev THEO4220) Liturgical Practicum: Acolyte (1 credit) This course prepares seminarians for service in the ministry of Acolyte. It begins with the presentation of the Languages history of the ministry of Acolyte and emphasizes the obligation of 'guardian' of the Holy Eucharist. This course is the practical complement to the theology of the sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. The topics develop students' understanding and practice of their ministry and include: purification of sacred vessels, linens, candles, processional Cross, thurible and incense, Master of Ceremonies, Extraordinary Minister of Holy Communion, presiding at a Communion Service and the exposition and reposition of the Blessed Sacrament.

TH-LA-2121 (prev GREE3110) Greek I (3 credits) This beginning course introduces the alphabet, morphology and the syntax of New Testament.

TH-LP-2300 (prev THEO5250) Liturgical Practicum: Deacon (1 credit) This practicum prepares seminarians for ordination to the Diaconate. The students are provided theoretical and practical experience in the ministries of a Deacon. Emphasis is placed on the theology and history of the Diaconate, the Rite of Ordination of Deacons, the service of the Deacon at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, the ministry of the Deacon for Blessings, the role of the Deacon when presiding at the Rite of Infant Baptism, the Rite of Matrimony (outside the Mass), pastoral care of the sick, the vigil of Christian Funerals, and the Rite of Christian Funerals (including graveside commendation and cremated remains).

Liturgical and Sacramental Theology

TH-LS-2100 (prev THEO3135) Liturgical and Sacramental Theology (3 credits) This course is an introductory study of the scriptural origins, theological developments and doctrines that have shaped the rituals, prayers and Sacraments of the Church. The initial topic is an exploration of the mystery and celebration of the liturgy underlining prayer, for it is through liturgical prayer that Christ “communicates the fullness of His Divine life to souls, reproduces His mystery in them, and draws them into His mystery” (Vaggagini). Therefore, it is essential that the study of the liturgy and sacraments of the Church begins with an integrated foundation of the theological principles succinctly expressed as lex orandi lex credendi.

As the integrating emphasis is placed on the hermeneutic of continuity (Benedict XVII) with the implementation of the Second Vatican Council, the primary objective of this course is to implement the Decree on the Training of Priests (Optatam totius # 16) and the Constitution on the Liturgy (Sacrosanctum concilium ## 15 and 16).

TH-LS-2225 (prev THEO3125) Baptism and Confirmation (2 credits) In this course, students explore Christ and His Mystery through the systematic study of the sacraments of Baptism and Confirmation as Sacraments of Initiation. The course treats the development of the sacraments in the Apostolic period as documented in Sacred Scripture; the further documentation of the sacraments found in Patristic and liturgical fonts; the sacramental theology of St. Thomas Aquinas; the stabilization of the sacraments through Ecumenical Councils; and the ecclesiology of the sacraments of the Second Vatican Council. The history and theology of Baptism and Confirmation further develop the study of the Rites of Baptism and Confirmation. The Rites of Christian Initiation of Adults summarize and conclude the course.

Prerequisite Courses:

Liturgical and Sacramental Theology

TH-LS-2270 (prev THEO3270) Sacrament of Holy Eucharist (2 credits) This course is designed to provide students with a systematic study of the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. As it follows the course on Confirmation and Baptism, emphasis is upon the Eucharist as a Sacrament of Initiation. The topics presented in the course provide the student with a basis for understanding how the Eucharist makes the Church. It also prepares the students for their ministerial service as an Acolyte. An initial presentation of significant Eucharistic foundations in Sacred Scripture is followed by an overview of the development of the celebration of the Eucharist in the early Church. The second portion of the course underlines the Patristic and Medieval developments of Eucharistic doctrine. These presentations are followed by a study of the Council of Trent and the Second Vatican Council. The final portion of the course highlights the celebration and the adoration of the Holy Eucharist to prepare the students to study the Encyclical Letter of Blessed John Paul II, Ecclesia de Eucharistia, the subsequent

Liturical and Sacramental Theology

TH-LS-2335 (prev THEO4135) Sacrament of Matrimony (2 credits) This course offers an historical, theological and pastoral study of the sacramentality of the sacrament of Matrimony. This will require an examination of the understanding of Matrimony in its role within the economy of salvation, as part of the mysterion of God. Early Fathers of the Church and the Scholastics will lay the groundwork for a discussion of magisterial teachings. The works of Pope Pius XI, Pope Paul VI and Pope Saint John Paul II will be especially developed. A commentary on the current Marriage Rite will be undertaken.

TH-LS-2340 (prev THEO5240) Sacrament of Holy Orders (3 credits) This course is a systematic study of the sacrament of Holy Orders and the theology of celibacy: the Scriptural foundations, patristic sources, and the history of the development of the ecclesial understanding of the deacon, presbyter and bishop. Attention is given to the minister’s configuration to Christ, priest, prophet, and pastor. The course will include a study of documents of the Magisterium that pertain to Holy Orders as well as a consideration of various contemporary theological, ecumenical, and pastoral issues. This course assists the student to understand the relationship of every component of his theological studies to the priest as teacher, sanctifier, and shepherd of God’s People.

TH-LS-2400 (prev THEO6110) Sacraments of Healing with Practicum (3 credits) This course includes a history of the doctrinal and liturgical development of the Sacraments of Penance and the Anointing of the Sick from the New Testament to contemporary rituals. An analysis of the current state of doctrine and liturgical law provides principles with which to evaluate the merits of current pastoral practices. Through a survey of the doctrinal development of indulgences, the pastoral care of the sick, sacramentals, and the rites of Christian burial, the course offers a theology of suffering, reconciliation, hope and mercy to be applied in priestly ministry. The students are provided the opportunity to integrate theological studies with the pastoral practice of the Sacraments of Penance/Reconciliation and the Anointing of the Sick. Class discussions include canonical, spiritual and moral knowledge and an experience of hearing ‘confessions’ to enable seminarians to become confident ministers of these sacraments, thus it includes the characteristics of a good confession, different kinds of penitents, questions related to the absolutions of sins, the sacramental seal, faculties and jurisdiction. Class discussions also cover the issues of professional boundaries and pastoral guidelines for responding to penitents who confess sexual sins. The students practice the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick in a similar format.

TH-LS-2405 (prev THEO6250) The Roman Missal with Practicum (2 credits) This course begins with a survey of the development of the Eucharistic Liturgy from its institution by Christ through the actual Missale Romanum, editio tertia, 2002. An in-depth study per ritus et preces assists the student to acquire a proper appreciation for the Holy Mass as the source and summit of communion for both the Priest celebrant and the worshiping congregation. The study of the theology of the Liturgy prepares the seminarian for a greater consciousness of the celebration of the Mass as an act of prayer and participation in the ineffable mystery of our salvation. In addition to the study the Roman Missal (2002) there is the opportunity for a practicum for the celebration of Mass (Entrance Rites, Liturgy of the Word, Offertory Rites, Liturgy of the Eucharist, and Concluding Rites). The students learn the significance of gesture and ritual in ars celebrandi as the principal celebrant and a concelebrant of the Mass.

Moral Theology

TH-MO-2101 (prev THEO4120) Fundamental Moral Theology I (3 credits) This is the first semester of a two semester graduate level introduction to Catholic moral theology, examining the philosophical and theological bases for understanding the moral life and reasoning about concrete issues. This course examines the nature of moral theology, its role in the life of the Church, the anthropological faculties that underlie the moral life (i.e., practical reason, free choice, and conscience), the concept of natural law, and themes related to human action.

TH-MO-2102 (prev THEO4210) Fundamental Moral Theology II (2 credits) This course examines the specifically Christian character of the moral life of baptized Christians. It considers God's redemptive work in the life of Jesus and how men and women enter into that redemptive work through living a Christian life. The course discusses how the Christian moral life can and should be both fully human and fully divine.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-MO-2101
Fundamental Moral Theology I

TH-MO-2200 (prev THEO5125) Sexual Ethics (2 credits) This course is a graduate level introduction to themes and issues in Catholic sexual ethics. The course begins with a consideration of marriage in Catholic theology and then structures its subsequent discussions of concrete issues in the light of the normative requirements for protecting and promoting the goods of marriage.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-MO-2101 TH-MO-2102
Fundamental Moral Theology I Fundamental Moral Theology II

TH-MO-2205 (prev THEO5290) Bioethics (3 credits) This course is a graduate level introduction to themes and moral issues in the biological sciences and the field of healthcare. After a summary of relevant documents of the Magisterium, the course examines concrete issues in bioethics, especially related to the beginning and end of life.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-MO-2101 TH-MO-2102
Fundamental Moral Theology I Fundamental Moral Theology II

TH-MO-2300 (prev THEO5230) Catholic Social Teaching (2 credits) This course studies what is referred to as the tradition of modern Catholic social teaching, beginning with Pope Leo XIII's landmark social encyclical Rerum Novarum published in 1891, and carrying through the social writings of Pope Benedict XVI.

Prerequisite Courses:

TH-MO-2101 TH-MO-2102

TH-MO-2405 (prev THEO6105) Spiritual Theology (2 credits) It has been observed that the greatest tragedy to befall Christianity in its history has been the split between what is called spiritual and dogmatic theology. This course aims at helping theology regain its spiritual depth while maintaining its intellectual rigor.

Pastoral Theology

TH-PA-2100 (prev THEO3130) Pastoral Psychology (2 credits) This course introduces seminarians to the subject of pastoral psychology, familiarizing them with current theory and practice from the perspectives of clinical and counseling psychology, pastoral theology and the developing field of pastoral counseling. Problems and disorders frequently encountered by pastoral ministers are discussed.

TH-PA-2105 (prev THEO5140) Pastoral Marriage Counseling (2 credits) This course enables the student to prepare couples for marriage and to provide limited counseling to couples who seek help with marriage and family problems. The first portion of the course presents diocesan policies for preparing couples for marriage and introduces several testing instruments that comprise the marital preparation process. The second portion of the course assists the seminarian in developing some rudimentary skills in marriage counseling for problems such as couple conflict, infidelity, separation, divorce, and depression. (Note: This is a pastoral course and does not prepare men for professional counseling as understood by the field of Psychology.)

TH-PA-2200 (prev THEO4260) Pastoral Theology (2 credits) This course examines pastoral ministry as a discipline unique among the helping professions, for it is rooted in a theological orientation that is ecclesial in nature.
Scripture, Tradition and theology shape pastoral action. Seminarians will discuss pastoral experience, evaluate their performance, and develop a method for critiquing their pastoral effectiveness. Special emphasis is placed on working in cross-cultural ministries within a parish community.

TH-PA-2400 (prev THEO6125) Spiritual Direction (1 credit) This course defines and elaborates spiritual direction as an expression of spiritual fatherhood in the priestly ministry ordered to a holy conversation by which souls are directed to union with God in the life of grace.

Pastoral Field Assignments

TH-PF-2800 (prev THEO7x65) Apostolic Field Assignment (1 credit) The Apostolate is an integral part of the formation of each seminarian. During each academic year, the seminarian is engaged in a continuing ministry with schools, parishes, nursing homes, outreach organizations, and hospitals. The apostolic service requires a 3- to 4-hour time commitment weekly. During the semester he receives valuable critique to strengthen his ministerial presence and skills. Each seminarian is responsible to the Director of Pastoral Formation who administers the assignments and completes a formal evaluation each year.

TH-PF-2810 (prev THEO7000) Pastoral Missionary Practice/Itinerancy (15 credits) This course is designed to provide specialized pastoral training for seminarians who plan to serve as missionaries. Working under the supervision of the missionary practice director, missionary sites are located off the main campus of the seminary. Students work with missionary teams for a minimum of two years as they learn and practice the skills necessary to catechize and lead small Christian communities during this intense period of spiritual growth. (May be repeated or extended at the discretion of the practice director.)

TH-PF-2820 (prev THEO8000) Pastoral Practical Training (15 credits) This course is designed to provide specialized pastoral training after ordination and before assuming full-time ministry. Students are placed in accordance with their needs and abilities.

Sacred Scripture

TH-SS-2100 (prev THEO3115) Pentateuch (3 credits) A survey of modern scholarship will allow the student to realize the present situation in Pentateuchal studies. Together with the so-called documentary hypothesis, other more recent proposals are presented. The critical analysis of many texts illustrates and manifests the strengths and weaknesses of the different approaches.

TH-SS-2200 (prev THEO3260) Prophets (3 credits) This course provides a survey of prophecy in Israel. It begins with a consideration of the rise of prophecy as it is presented in the Deuteronomistic history, and then focuses upon the development of prophetic literature during the period of the eighth to the fifth centuries B.C. A basic knowledge of Biblical Hebrew is required for the exegesis of prophetic texts.

TH-SS-2215 (prev THEO4205) Luke and Acts (2 credits) This course will introduce students to the Lucan corpus, his Gospel and its sequel in the Book of Acts. Since this course will view these works as a literary whole, narrative criticism will be the primary methodological approach used to ascertain his particular themes and editorial interests. This literary study will serve to introduce the distinctive theological achievements of Luke in order to better understand the person and work of Jesus Christ and the character of the early Church.
TH-SS-2300 (prev THEO4230) Psalms and Wisdom Literature (3 credits) The material of this course is divided in two parts. The first part concentrates on the Book of Psalms, the principal psalm forms, themes, and theology. The second part deals with Israelite Wisdom literature as it evolved from simple proverbs to more advanced considerations of the questions of theodicy, the meaning of suffering, what is the “good” for man, and life after death.

TH-SS-2310 (prev THEO5115) Letters of St. Paul (3 credits) Beginning with a chronology of the life and mission of Paul as he speaks of himself in his epistles and as he is presented in the Acts of the Apostles, the course will briefly examine the Jewish and Hellenistic communities in which he lived and preached. The thirteen undisputed and disputed epistles and the letter to the Hebrews will be studied in detail with reference to particular context, literary genre, rhetorical patterns, theological themes and stylistic traits. An exegesis of selected passages will enable the student to appreciate both the development of Pauline thought and the enduring importance of his insights.

TH-SS-2315 (prev THEO6212) The Catholic Epistles and Revelation (2 credits) This course undertakes a close study of the Catholic Epistles and the Book of Revelation of the New Testament.

TH-SS-2400 (prev THEO6100) St. John (3 credits) This course studies the rich theology and literary structure of the Gospel of John with a brief review of the Johannine epistles.

Advanced Theological Topics

TH-TT-2500 (prev THEO6280) Topics in Theology (1-3 credits) This course number is reserved for elective courses offered in the Theology Program and/or courses designed for independent study under the guidance of a Theology professor.

Description of the Seal

The shield, in blue, black and white, is divided into three fields representing the Holy Trinity. The black Tau Cross that divides the shield is called the Cross of Prophecy or the Advent Cross. This is an ancient symbol for the renewal of the Church and personal conversion. The Tau Cross also reminds us that the way of the disciple requires a daily shouldering of the Cross of Christ.

The top field is an expression of gratitude for St. Thomas Aquinas Seminary on whose patrimony our seminary stands today. The seal of that seminary included an open book to symbolize the Scriptures on which was written the word evangelizare, meaning “to evangelize.” To this we have added noviter, Latin for “anew” to indicate the new evangelization called for by Pope Saint John Paul II, after whom the grounds of the seminary are named.

The bottom left field features the fleur-de-lis, the stylized lily representing Our Lady and her purity, particularly in the mystery of the Annunciation of the Word made Flesh. The Archangel Gabriel, the messenger of the advent of the Savior, is often pictured holding a lily at the Annunciation. The fleur-de-lis is also a symbol of France and so also indicates our patron, Saint John Marie Vianney. The background of the fleur is blue, the color of Our Lady, to whose intercession the work of the seminary is entrusted.

The bottom right field holds another flower, the columbine, whose name comes from the Latin columba, meaning dove. The columbine thus calls to mind the Holy Spirit who is the principal agent of priestly formation. The Christ Child in the Archdiocese of Denver’s Icon of Our Lady of the New Advent bears this same flower—as also the state flower of Colorado—as an emblem of his tender concern for the Church in Northern Colorado.

Below the shield, the banner bears Our Lady’s fiat, her response to Gabriel’s announcement of her place in the saving plan of God. The words of Mary suggest a new announcement of the Gospel in our day and express the obedience in faith that each member of the seminary community strives to imitate, “Let it be done to me according to your word” (Lk 1:38).

The circle enclosing the shield and banner contains the name of Saint John Vianney Theological Seminary, and this seal is used by all divisions of the seminary: the Division for Priestly Formation, the St. Francis School of Theology for Deacons, and the Denver Catholic Biblical and Catechetical Schools.
